Assault on Corfu

RUINS WEDDING DAY FOR YANKEE LOVERS

NEW YORK.—The Italian shells which fell on the Greek island of Corfu were responsible for the interruption of the wedding arrangements of two near east brides, who, twenty minutes before the bombardment commenced, were to have left for Athens to be married the next day.

In a cable from Athens, which L. W. Archer, secretary of the near east relief, received late Sunday night, it was disclosed that Col. Stephen Lowe of St. Louis and Miss Thomas Wood of Baltimore at Sinal, Ont., were on the point of sailing when the Italian authorities refused them permission to depart.

'ROUND TOWN—

A tourist who hailed from some where in Michigan and who had been touring northern Wisconsin blew into town in a mud-spattered car at twilight last night, and after asking a Tribune reporter the way to the nearest lunch room told his troubles. He had been all day going from Chippewa Falls to La Crosse in the mud, which he declared surpassed all records for depth on highway No. 11 up in Trempealeau county.

FINAL SESSION OF SOKOL CONVENTION OPENS ON MONDAY

Meeting Here to Close With Business Session on Monday Morning at School

BISHOP'S SERMON AND FIELD DAY FEATURE SUNDAY PROGRAM

Announce List of Prize Winners in Tournament Competition

THE sixth general conference of the Union of Catholic Sokols of America went into its final session Monday morning with a business meeting at the convention headquarters in St. Wenceslaus school. The last session of the convention marks the close of one of the most successful meetings ever held by the Sokols, despite the handicap of rainy weather which was encountered here.

Bishop Speaks

Sunday morning a pontifical high mass was celebrated at St. Wenceslaus church by Rt. Rev. Alexander J. McGuckin, bishop of the diocese of La Crosse. In his sermon the bishop lauded the Sokols for their steadfast loyalty to their faith, complimented them upon their success in building up strong physical bodies in their members and exhorted them to always hold before them the light of the Catholic faith and to hold steadfast to its ideals.

Send Messages

On Sunday the Sokols adopted a resolution to send a telegram to President Coolidge and a cablegram to Pope Pius XI. The text of the messages follows:

"President of the United States, The Bohemian Catholic Sokols gathered in their sixth general conference on page six."

ROOF COLLAPSES OVER HEADS OF JAP STATESMEN GATHERED TO ORGANIZE NEW GOVERNMENT

Count G. Yamamoto, an admiral, is the new prime minister of Japan and thus becomes a leader in world affairs.

Count Yamamoto is Named Head of New Cabinet

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—By The Associated Press.—While flames roared and buildings toppled in the heart of Tokyo Sunday, the leaders in statecraft were assembled in the naval club to form a cabinet to succeed that of the late Premier Kato. Dispatches describing this were received early Monday by the Radio Corporation of America. The reports said the naval club collapsed and was destroyed by fire during the meeting. No mention was made of casualties there, but another wireless message told of the formation of the cabinet and gave the names of its members.

Under the cabinet as described by the radiogram, Count Gombel Yamamoto, the new premier, retains the portfolio of foreign affairs; Viscount Goto, former mayor of Tokyo, is minister of home affairs; Junnosuke Inouye, governor of the Bank of Japan, becomes minister of finance; Baron Den, governor general of Formosa, is minister of justice; Ki Yunki, a leading political figure of Japan, is minister of communications and education; Ichiji Yamamoto, crown member of the house of peers, minister of railways; Admiral Takarabe, minister of the navy.

The messenger dispatch made it appear that Baron Tanaka had resumed his former post as minister of war and also would hold the portfolios of agriculture and commerce. The dispatch, however, was somewhat garbled.

LA CROSSE JOINS NATION IN LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

Fishing and Picnic Parties Leave Early for Favorite Spots on the River

WILD WEST SHOW IN THE AFTERNOON DRAWS THROG

Dance at Yeomen Hall in Evening Under Auspices of Council

ORGANIZED LABOR OF LA CROSSE, THE SAME AS LABOR THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES, ON MONDAY CELEBRATED ITS GREAT ANNUAL DAY OF REST AND RECREATION, LABOR DAY.

There was no parade nor list of labor day speakers here this year. Instead the day is being spent by individual members of labor unions at family picnics and fishing trips. Bright and early many families, with father and the older boys bent nearly double under the weight of huge lunch baskets and fishing tackle, wended their way to the river for an early start for the favorite fishing grounds.

The entertainment provided for union members who remained in the city consisted of a wild west show in the afternoon and a dance in the evening. The Powder River Posse Cowboys put on pony express races, cowboy horse races, roping and other acts at the fair grounds, beginning at 2:30 p. m. The show is being staged under the auspices of the Trades and Labor Council. In the evening a dance is to be given at Yeomen hall by the council. Old and new dances will be featured and favorite dance music will be played on request, the council dance promoters announce.

DRINKS FOR ALL, INCLUDING BEER, IS HER PLATFORM

WEST HOBOKEN, N. J.—Mrs. Evangeline Duff, who is ambitious to become mayor of this town on the democratic ticket, practically clinched her election Sunday when she announced her platform of three planks, as follows:

Milk for babies.
Malt for mammas.
Beer for papas.

If she is elected, Mrs. Duff declares, she will regard West Hoboken as one big family and give it a much needed dose of household economy.

"Why, I'm horrified to see them tearing up perfectly good sidewalks only four years old and building new ones just to give somebody profits and jobs, with materials and labor so high," she said.

COP PICKPOCKET VICTIM

GREEN BAY, Wis.—While watching for pickpockets, who have been active at the Northeastern Wisconsin fair here, Joe Hooker, special policeman on the fair grounds was himself victimized by a "dip" who cut his pocket and made away with $25.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION ON LAND AND SEA FOLLOW IN WAKE OF EARTH SHOCKS

Tokio, Yokohama and Cities Within Radius of 50 Miles Today Lie in Ruins, With Flames Still Raging; Many Ships Reported Crushed by Tidal Waves at Sea; Thousands Homeless and Without Food

FLORENCE, Italy.—1:15 p. m.—By The Associated Press.—Seismic instruments here have recorded another strong and distant earthquake. It is not yet possible to ascertain the distance of the tremors as the record was made in a special form on the instruments.

SAN FRANCISCO.—By The Associated Press.—Tokio, Yokohama and neighboring cities Sunday night were burning ruins, while more than 100,000 persons in the vicinity of these cities were reported dead as a result of Saturday's earthquake, according to advices received in San Francisco by the Associated Press from its Shanghai correspondent and by the Radio corporation from its station at Tomioka.

Death and destruction were spread over an area roughly comprised within a radius of fifty miles of Tokio. How extensive casualties and the material damage outside that zone is has not been determined as all communications with Japan are still interrupted except for brief connections by radio with Tomioka and occasional dispatches from Japan to Shanghai.

The cities of Tokio and Yokohama were described by one Associated Press informant, the superintendent of the Japanese government wireless station at Tomioka which operates via Radio corporation, as "like hell."

Buildings were falling; fire was spreading everywhere; dead and dying were on all sides; there were explosions and cries of horror and fear by the panic-stricken populace.

Many Ships Sink

What quake and fire did not destroy on land, tidal waves are reported to have crushed or sunk at sea. The fate of the ships in Yokohama harbor and what ships were there, still remains to be determined.

The best available reports received on Sunday said hardly a structure was left standing in the Yamanote district, which includes the Tokio wards of Honjo, Fukagawa, Akusaka, Shitaya, Nishinabashi and Kanda.

Thousands are without food and water and no means of getting any at present.

In Yokohama the fire started in the bond, or foreign section, spreading rapidly to the business district which was wiped out.

Flames Still Raging

SHANGHAI.—By The Associated Press.—With the remnants of Tokio's stricken population reported still escaping from certain wards of the city, the fires continued to rage in all sections at one o'clock Monday morning, according to a telegram from the police of the Osaka prefecture. Soldiers were destroying with bombs, buildings in the paths of the flames.

It is impossible to estimate the loss of life.

Prince Yamashina and Princess Kaya, who were injured at Kamakura, now are reported dead. Marquis Matsukata, one of the two members of the genro, or elder statesmen, advisers to the crown, is reported injured seriously.

Of the wards in Tokio, Aoyama, Akasaka, a part of Ushigome, and the greater part of Azabu were destroyed entirely. None of the other wards is believed to have escaped.

More Shocks Felt Sunday

Another earthquake at one o'clock Sunday afternoon shook the Kanto district, centering on Yokohama, a city of 70,000, situated twelve nautical miles across the sea and to the south of Yokohama. The telephone exchange at Chojamachi was destroyed and forty operators killed.

An earth upheaval struck Kawaguchi, in the Tokio prefecture at 7 p. m. yesterday, destroying 500 houses and damaging 1,500 more.

Thirty-nine warships, combined squadrons under the command of Vice Admiral Takeshita—are being loaded with foodstuffs as Osaka and Kobe. They will sail for the scenes of destruction as soon as possible.

Imperial Palace Partly Razed

OSAKA.—By The Associated Press.—Lieut. Ishida, who flew over Tokio and the stricken district in an airplane Monday, has reported to the commander of the Nagoya division that the imperial palace was only partially damaged.

Tokio itself is devastated with the exception of Ushigome ward, part of Koishigawa ward, practically the whole of Yetsu ward and the north side of Asayamaderi.

Nearly all the concrete and brick buildings collapsed. Fukagawa was flooded by the tidal wave.

The airman said it was difficult to fly over the capital at a height suitable for observation purposes because of the intensity of the flames and the suffocating smoke.

The imperial palace has been thrown open for refugees.

Fear For Diplomats

Nothing is known as to the safety of the foreign diplomatic representatives and there is no news concerning the many foreign residents.

The latest estimate of casualties in Yokohama alone exceeds 100,000. Reports from Yokohama say that the damage to buildings in the foreign settlement has been particularly serious. The Specie bank and the

CALLS UPON LABOR TO JOIN IN DRIVE FOR WORLD PEACE

Warren S. Stone, in Labor Day Address, Points to Service Labor Can Render

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—By The Associated Press.—The message of the text war overshadowed all other issues when Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said in a Labor day message today.

"American labor can render no greater service than to secure the cooperation of forward-looking men and women in this country as well as in other lands, for the maintenance of permanent world peace," Mr. Stone asserted.

"The second great issue in which the workers of America are involved is the struggle between anarchy and democracy in industry. The stability, the harmony, and the prosperity of the nation's economic fabric is at stake. There cannot, there should not be industrial peace until the men who have all they have—their labor and their lives in the nation's basic industries, have a voice in directing the destiny of those industries, at least equal to that of the men who merely invest their money."

"Democracy in government goes hand in hand with democracy in industry. Because we have ignored the latter, we are in danger of losing the former. If the workers of America are not to slip back into a state of economic servitude, they must organize their political power as never before, and use it regardless of party labels to secure honest, efficient and impartial government. There lies the remedy for the usurping veto power of the courts, which enables a few reactionary judges appointed for life and removed from the voice and needs of the people, to nullify child labor laws, minimum wage protection for women, and other humane reforms repeatedly enacted by congress in response to the almost unanimous demand of the American people."

"On this day consecrated to the holiness of human toil, the workers of the nation take stock of what they have already achieved, re-direct their course in line with labor's ideals, and pledge anew their devotion to the cause of creating a happier, nobler and more abundant life for all mankind. For labor's purposes are not selfish."

"But, the present Labor day finds us at one of the most critical periods in the American history. Problems such as our grandfathers never knew, are pressing upon us for solution. The conferences and intrigues of diplomats and politicians, the exhortations of clergymen, and the resolutions of all sorts of civic clubs have alike failed to solve these problems. It remains for the masses of the workers who produce and transport all the necessities of life to organize and use their economic and political power if civilization itself is to survive the forces of hate, greed and selfishness which now imperil it."

ROADS TO TELL HOW TO PACK FURNITURE

Campaign to Reduce Loss to Shipping to Be Conducted During September

NEW YORK.—By The Associated Press.—A campaign national in scope and in many ways unlike any previous movement undertaken by the railroads of America, was begun yesterday and will be carried on throughout the month of September with these objectives in view:

1. Reduction of loss of and damage to the public's personal belongings when transported by rail.
2. Dissemination of information regarding the proper packing of household goods when prepared for rail shipment.
3. Education of the many thousands of railroad freight agents along the lines of proper marking, packing, boxing and crating of household goods.

Four organizations nationally known are behind this campaign, the American Railway association, through its freight claim division, representing the operation of 95 per cent of the railroad mileage of the United States; the American Railway Express company, which handles a large volume of household goods over the railroad annually; the National Furniture Warehousemen's association, with a membership of more than 650 household goods storage companies selling service and space to the public in the United States and Canada; and the household goods division of the American Warehousemen's association, comprising public storage companies.

Analysis of conditions under which the people's personal belongings, including pianos and all sorts of household furniture, move forward from city to city by rail, has given clear indication, according to the carriers, that the public generally and many railroad local freight agents in particular have little conception of the proper methods of preparing and packing for shipment.

DENVER, Colo.—While they were standing on Mills Moraine at Estes Park, Colo., marveling at a heavy fall of snow, two women visitors were struck by lightning Sunday afternoon and both rendered unconscious. One Miss Ethel Haden of Kansas City, was stripped of clothing and severely burned.

HIS JOB'S TO GUARD AGAINST RUINED LIVES

Henry Noll is known in Madison, Wis., as "Judge." "Judge of publicity," it's an official job and something in the nature of a censorship, but a censorship of a sort to which even newspaper men are unlikely to object.

For one thing, Noll's a newspaper man himself—a very experienced one. And his censorship's of his own paper's creation. It's establishment followed criticism of the publicity given by the press to juvenile court cases. It frequently happened, the critics pointed out, that boys and girls with whom there really wasn't much wrong, got into trouble on account of mere indiscretions or obnoxiousities of which a good talking to, maybe, was specially enough; and yet, getting into juvenile court, attracted such attention to themselves that they became marked characters forever afterward, and sometimes had their whole lives ruined in consequence.

It Did Seem Hard

The critics contended that when publication of such cases served no good end, it ought to be avoided. The Wisconsin States Journal recognized that publicity of this kind did seem hard, so it chose Henry Noll, one of its own special writers, to pass on all cases involving youthful offenses, before printing them.

Accordingly all stories of this type come to Noll's desk. They come to him from courts and police stations, or are personally turned in to him by the reporters, or, if the city editor happens to get them first, they're passed on to Noll for consideration. Nobody, not even the Journal's publisher, is permitted to question his decisions.

His Decisions Final

If Judge Noll feels that publication of a story will benefit the public, in it goes. If he thinks it will injure some youngster, with no compensating advantage to the community, he kills it.

So far as Madison knows, Noll's the first man ever to hold such a position. His publicity confit has attracted the attention of welfare organizations in many cities, in some of which moves have been made to induce their own newspapers to follow the Journal's example.

TWENTY-EIGHT DIE IN MINE SYDNEY, N. S. W.—Twenty-eight men were killed in an explosion in the Bell Bird colliery in New South Wales. Fifteen bodies have been recovered.

MOVIES

"THE CHEAT"

The print of George Fitzmaurice's production "The Cheat" starring Pola Negri, arrived at the Rivoli yesterday, and has been seen by the company's executives, all of whom are enthusiastic over its entertainment qualities and its perfection of technical detail.

Miss Negri comes into her own in "The Cheat." The splendid work done by Jack Holt and Charles de Roche must not be overlooked. Beautiful women, gorgeous gowns, sumptuous settings, flawless direction, superlative acting and a tremendous story all combine to make it an ideal picture. Pola's beauty and genius is seen as heroine of a strictly modern romantic drama of beauty and luxury, with a happy ending. "The Cheat" plays at the Rivoli for six days.

The above picture will start the fall season at the Rivoli and will also mark the start of the new Rivoli orchestra which is under the direction of Mr. Karl Hoppe. Mr. Hoppe has written a special synchronized music score for this feature.

CASINO TODAY

Lumps, bruises and broken bones are frequently the portion of motion picture actors in their efforts to attain realism, and in this connection the participants in the riot scene in "The Rapids," Ernest Shipman's powerful drama, which comes to the Casino theatre today, were not disappointed. They not only received their portion but more than their share.

In addition to several hundred men who took part in the riot, there was an entire company of Canadian soldiers, together with a company of the picturesque Highlanders, or "Ladies from Hell" attired in their kilts.

The fight, which is the outcome of a strike, is one of the high spots in the picture. Clubs are used as well.

Take Hold!

PROBABLY it is expecting too much of human nature to believe that the council of the league of nations should have done more than postpone the Greco-Italian crisis when it was laid before it. The moving factors of the council are friends of Italy's, who is the defendant, and both England and France have reasons of their own for not wishing to offend her. Moreover, no one is in haste to grasp the nettle, and the council may find matters somewhat less bristling by waiting until Tuesday. Nevertheless it must be confessed that the situation is far from re-assuring. If it is true that Italy will defy the league and insist that her quarrel with Greece is not proper matter for its intervention, it would seem that the only course left to the organization would be to break off relations with the defiant state, as provided in the covenant, and consider other means of bringing it to reason. Much, of course, depends upon what answer Italy will make. By this time she has had the opportunity to see that her truculence is badly regarded in almost all the world, and therefore her answer may smooth the situation considerably.

If the league council had promptly accepted the Greek appeal, as they are bound to do under a fair reading of the covenant, and as promptly requested Italy for a version of her side of the case, it would not have been committed to anything but an inquiry, but yet would have shown a certain confidence and courage. By temporizing with a weak resolution, hoping that neither of the embattled members will do anything they may be sorry for, the league got away to a bad start, at least. Much better had it heeded the delegates of the Scandinavian countries and Britain, who wanted firm action to vindicate the league's authority or demonstrate its failure.

It is not too late for the league to redeem the situation. No doubt it will do so on Tuesday when the council has had a chance to examine the situation and decide on a course of action, which the suddenness of the event on Saturday made hard to choose. But it will not be done by postponement or uncertainty which may be read by an aggressive power as fear to put its authority to the test. To hesitate is to confess impotency, at this juncture. Promptness and firmness may assure the league's future for centuries of history.

Below Equator

IT IS common for a wealthy Latin American to purchase five or six autos at a time, great ropes of pearls, diamonds, sapphires and rubies. This is the most interesting fact brought from his latest South American tour by E. M. Newman, travelogue lecturer. Newman is enthused, and with good reason, about the possibilities of trade between United States and Latin America—particularly Argentina. He figures that South America has a purchasing power three times as big as France's and 10 times as big as Japan's. There's a market worth going after.

Ten years ago, when Newman visited South America, he noticed very few American autos. On his recent trip he found American cars by the thousands. Our autos are so popular south of the equator that they have practically driven the cars of all other nations off the market. Newman says: "Contrary to the popular impression, South Americans have great pride in their personal appearance. American collars, shirts, underwear, hosiery, shoes and hats find great favor.

"American moving pictures are the only ones shown. Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin and Jackie Coogan are as well known in South American cities as they are in our own."

Good news, that we are finding such favor with our neighbors to the far south

Argentina is an especially logical market for the American manufacturer, Lecturer Newman believes, because: "The people of Argentina are the most extravagant race in the world today. Their extravagance excels even that of the Russian nobility during the czar's regime." Newman says that Argentine women, when they appear in public places of recreation, are so dazzlingly appareled and bejeweled that they eclipse in splendor even American women. All of which are surface indications of enormous natural resources and national economic productivity that will place Argentina—Brazil also—in the top ranks of world powers.

Many of us are so hypnotized watching the decay of the old civilization in Europe, that we forget there's a mighty new civilization rising on the South American continent.

Eternal Hokum

ABOUT 200 years ago Richard Bradley published a "Family Dictionary" in which he said: "To attain to an advanced and even extreme old age, take three pounds of rose-water, five ounces of orange and lemon peel dried in the shade, nutmeg, clove and cinnamon, of each three ounces; a pound of red roses that have been gathered two days, a pinch of laurel leaves; put all these together with some rose-water, bed upon bed, into a glass of limbeck, distill them very gently with a Bath-Mary, and keep the water that comes out for your use."

This concoction, according to Bradley, would prolong life and meantime effect all the cures for infirmities and disorders ever claimed for any patent medicine by a street faker.

There are many home brewers ambitious enough to attempt to manufacture Bradley's formula, no doubt. He had other formulas for living to a ripe old age—and played them up so strongly that it is evident the folks of 200 years ago were as keen for long life as we eager observers of monkey gland experiments.

Life is a merry-go-round, the same old things over and over again in different disguises in succeeding generations.

Death and trouble seem to ignore the campaigns against them.

The trouble with these attempts to find a method of making people live 150 or more years is that, even if scientists discovered how, no one would live up to the rules.

It's like going to a doctor. We want him to give us a pill and send us away magically cured. If Doc prescribes starvation diet, a long course of bitter medicine or hard physical exercise, the patient is apt to consider the cure worse than the disease.

After all, we're kidding ourselves about wanting to live 200 years or so. Most of us are ready to quit at 70, tired, bored.

Don't even go near Deauville. French bathing beauties there are getting sunburned all over.

A Cipher and a Trained Mind

By H. IRVING KING

Arthur Campbell was a star reporter on a big New York daily, and he was in love with Ethel Crosby—who was in love with him. But Ethel's father was a rich financier who had no use for newspaper men. Although he had been a friend of Arthur's father in the days when the two had "broken into" Wall street together, he had no idea of letting his daughter marry his old friend's son—the friend being dead and having been so badly "pinched" in the market before his decease as to leave Arthur with a very moderate fortune indeed.

"Oh, Arthur," Ethel was saying as the two sat alone in the back parlor of the old-fashioned Crosby mansion, "I am really afraid we shall have to elope—for I won't give you up, let father say what he will." She had a mind of her own, had Ethel, and Arthur thought she never looked so beautiful as when animated by an expression of that mind. It must be admitted, though, that at such time, she bore a rather striking resemblance to her father, from whom her strong will was inherited.

"He was talking to me today about you," went on Ethel, "and even went so far as almost to order me to forbid you the house. But I told him frankly that I should do no such thing. If he wanted to, I said, he might, of course; but I would not. He called me an ungrateful and rebellious child and I cried, and he went off in a rage to the library. He's there now. He's got some business matter on his mind. I can see, and that makes him very unreasonable."

"I don't see why your father should be so down on me," said Arthur. "I have a little money of my own and—I came tonight expressly to tell you—I have just been appointed Washington correspondent of the paper—a mighty good job. I'll be managing editor before very long, you see. If I don't, and some day I'll have a paper of my own. I've a good mind to go upstairs and have it out with him."

"Don't," cried Ethel. "Matters can't be any worse than they are now. Perhaps when he understands how good your prospects are he'll relent a little. Oh, if he only could understand how much we love each other I am sure he would."

"All right," replied Arthur, "there goes the Rubicon!" Arthur went upstairs, knocked on the library door, which stood partly open, and entered. Mr. Crosby looked up, surprised and angry from the paper on the table before him which he had been contemplating with a puzzled frown.

"Excuse my intrusion, Mr. Crosby," said Arthur. "But I gathered from Ethel that you might like to have a talk with me concerning my relations to your daughter. We are deeply in love. I have a small competence and have just been appointed Washington correspondent for my paper. My prospects are good, my character will bear investigation and, in short, I ask the hand of your daughter in marriage."

"You—you!" spluttered Crosby. "You—you—a—liar, you pauper! If you had gone into Wall street as your father did!"

"I might have been squeezed by old Collingwood as my father was," interrupted Arthur. At the name of Collingwood Crosby paused reflectively and glanced at the paper on the table. His whole manner changed, for in that paper, he felt, was a menace from that same source which might result in his own undoing. "Yes," said he, "Collingwood did ruin your father and there (tapping the paper on the table) is the same hand reached out for me."

Arthur glanced at the document. "Cipher, sir?" he asked.

"Yes," replied Crosby, "and I'd give something to read it."

On the piece of paper Arthur saw the following:

(5 6 3 3 : 2 8) 5 5 :

He gazed at it thoughtfully, then seemed to be struck with a sudden idea. "I think I can decode it for you, sir," said he.

"You can? Go ahead and try, then. If you succeed—Well, then we will talk of other matters." Arthur looked along the book shelves, took down a volume, drew a chair up to the table, selected a pencil and a piece of blank paper, drew the code message over to him and set to work. Finally he handed the cipher message back to Crosby with letters written under the cryptic characters. The message now appeared as follows:

(5 6 3 3 : 2 8) 5 5 :

raid p e t u e s d a y
"Raid Penitential and Galveston Tuesday, will be?" cried Crosby.

"The old villain, Well, we'll see about that," I have you on the hip, William! Checkmate to Collingwood."

It should be explained that John Quincy Crosby and William J. Collingwood were powers in Wall street and fought each other tooth and nail when their interests clashed—as they happened to do now.

Though in private life they were correct and estimable gentlemen, in business they were gladiators who knew neither mercy nor sentiment, and to surprise each other's business secrets when at war they were guilty of acts which they would have scorned at other times. Crosby had, somehow, got hold of a cipher message which Collingwood, then at Bar Harbor, had sent to one of his brokers in Wall street and had been unable to read it, though in it he felt was bound up his financial fate. It was in the contemplation of this message that Arthur had surprised him and changed his despair into exultation.

"How did you do it?" asked Crosby when he had calmed down a little.

"Why, you see, sir, replied Arthur, "a newspaper man has a trained mind (Crosby sniffed) accustomed to deductive reasoning. Your connecting the cipher message with Collingwood caused me rapidly to turn over in my mind everything connected with the occasion upon which I was sent to interview that eminent financier, and I recalled that on that occasion he was reading a volume of Poe's stories. Then I recollected that in Poe's story of 'The Gold Bug' there is a cryptogram containing the same characters which appear in the cipher message. This gave me a clue. I found on your bookshelves a copy of Poe's works, turned to 'The Gold Bug,' applied the cryptogram contained and explained therein to Collingwood's message—and you see the result. Very careless of Collingwood to appropriate a cipher instead of inventing one; but unless one has a trained mind he is apt to." "Quite so," interrupted Crosby, "and your trained mind, I understand, is bent on having my daughter. Well, you have rendered me such an immense service today that all I can say is—take her."

BONE FROM SHIN USED TO REPAIR HIS HEAD

NEW YORK.—Surgeons at the White Plains hospital cut away a piece of bone from the shin of a 9-year-old Dominick Morrello and grafted it into his skull to protect his brain. It was learned, Dominick was struck on the head with a baseball bat during a game on August 10. At the hospital it was found that he was suffering from a compound depressed fracture of the skull. The bone fragments causing the pressure were removed. This left an open space about two inches square. The surgeons, fearing another blow on the head might cause death, decided to protect the brain by a bone grafting operation.

Tribune Readers Will Make Visit Of Richards To La Crosse Busy One, First Day's Mail Proves

Have you sent in your question to Richards? Dozens of others have. Richards will be busy Monday answering them for the Tuesday edition of the Tribune. He will be in La Crosse for an entire week starting Monday evening and unless your query reaches him promptly he may not have time to write his answer. Richards will answer queries about business, love affairs, journeys, lost articles, missing relatives, changes in plans, real estate, health—most anything in fact. If the writer sends the inquiry addressed to "Richards, the Wizard," care of the La Crosse Tribune. All of his replies will be printed, provided you sign your name and address, as an evidence of your good faith. Only your initials will be published. Questions are answered by the wizard only in the Tribune or during regular performances at the La Crosse theatre. He does not give private interviews or "readings."

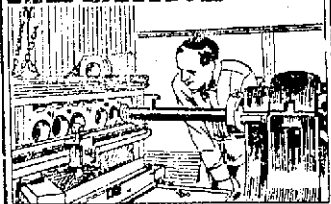

In addition to answering questions through the Tribune, Mr. Richards brings his big show of thrills, music, girls, mystery and splendor to the La Crosse theatre for an entire week starting Monday, and during each performance will give a brief demonstration of the new science of "Psychicancy" by which he derives answers from the innermost thoughts of all who see him. However, "Psychicancy" is only a small part of his big show as he carries a special carload of amazing scenic and mechanical effects, a large company and special orchestra that requires three acts and eight big scenes for the full two and a half hour presentation of the performance. Richards claims he is not a "mindreader" but a scientist and a magician. He is a famous magician because of the big show he carries, but this is gravely doubted by many that everything he does is based upon science. For Richards was reared as a boy among the great Yogi and Brahman priests of North India and from childhood he has baffled the leading scientists with his amazing work. But regardless of how he does it, send in your question to this paper right now if you want to be sure of receiving an answer.

Batik Artist Gives Hints On Tones and Temperament

MISS HANNAH ORSECK DESIGNING A GOWN IN BATIK

By MARIAN HALE
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK.—Batiks may be a bit to some but to Hannah Orseck they are decidedly worth while.

From an artist interested in the unusual and colorful, wondering where the next month's rent was coming from, Miss Orseck has developed into a business woman, operating on a large scale, wondering where to get enough employees.

Her skill in originating designs at once bizarre and subtle have made her work distinctive, but it is to her knack of producing harmony out of a medley of colors that she attributes her success.

"I believe many women have lost their color instinct because they have worn dark colors so long," she says. "For instance, it is a common belief that blonds can't wear red."

"On the contrary, I find the rich tones of red give to the blond the fire and color that is lacking in her temperament and they clash with the dark woman.

Proper Colors

The one color that is universally becoming is green—in some tone or other. Yet comparatively few women wear it, while blue, which is the most trying color there is except in the navy shades, is regarded as the color every woman can wear.

The Right Guide

Your color should match your temperament instead of your eyes, she believes. Hence, only sparkly, peppy people should wear yellow. She believes we should take our color schemes from the seasons.

"In the fall nothing is more appropriate than the russets, browns, reds and yellows of the autumn foliage, while in the spring we turn instinctively to the colors that suggest life and hope and a new, fresh outlook," she goes on. "If we followed nature's leads we would never be out of key with our surroundings."

BEAUTY BONDS

By MME. HELENE RUBINSTEIN
International Beauty Expert

Between the severe spring weather America has just endured and the brilliant summer sun which will soon be playing havoc with our skins one may look for the usual crop of wrinkles, lines, shriveled and dried up skins.

One cannot control the weather, but one can protect skin by the use of a scientifically shielding powder base.

From the artistic point of view, no finishing touch can succeed without foundation. The skin is full of pores which are like so many hungry mouths that swallow whatever is brought in direct contact with them.

Rouge and powder no matter how excellent their quality lose their effect by being drawn more and more deeply into the tissues instead of remaining on the surface. But, put something between the cosmetic and the skin and there is no reason why your powder should not last the whole afternoon and evening without your having to add the least mite.

Whenever you see a woman frequently powdering her nose or putting fresh rouge on her cheeks, you may be sure that either she hasn't used a foundation at all or that she has made a poor choice.

French women invariably use a foundation on their lips.

And now comes the question of the character of the foundation. If the skin is normal, your choice may be guided by preference so far as the question of whether it shall be a lotion or cream. But if the skin is dry be sure to use something containing soothing oils.

In the evening a vanishing cream is sometimes preferred to a base of any other kind, but for daytime I do not think it is as satisfactory as a balm.

When it happens to be windy or if the sun is shining brilliantly far better results are obtained by using a scientific protection either in the form of a non-disappearing cream or a lotion.

There are some skins, however, that do not easily discolor and if these happen to be of the oily type a lovely foundation can be made with liquid powder.

Dry powder and rouge should be put on before the liquid dries. This forms a very thin film that is good to protect the pores and is also becoming as it corrects the tendency to shine.

Round-Neck Dress Must Have Smooth Finish

COPYRIGHT BY M. CALLS

The round-neck dress is so very popular both for children and women that it is most important to the home dressmaker to be able to finish it neatly and smoothly.

Whether it is gathered or plain the round neck is finished with a bias binding in the manner indicated in the detail sketches.

For a plain neckline first sew the bias binding to the material, right sides together. Then turn the binding to the wrong side, turn the raw edge of the binding under and sew it down smoothly along the line of the seam. It is best to baste the binding to the material as soon as possible so the neckline can not stretch.

For a shirred neck gather the material, sew the bias binding to the dress, right sides together, and finish as for a plain neck.

The gathered round neckline is shown in dresses for children and in dresses and blouses of the peasant style for women. As to the plain round neckline—it is as popular as ever in spite of its vogue of many seasons.

FREIGHT RATE CUT ON FARM PRODUCTS URGED BY EKERN

Attorney General is Speaker at Labor Day Celebration
at Tomah

ATTACKS RAILROADS AND THE ESCH-CUMMINS RAIL ACT

Farmers and Laborers Have Power to Control Government

TOMAH, Wis.—"Freight rates on farmers' products being shipped to market should be cut in two. In order to give the farmer profit which is given to other industries where low price of the product compels reduced freight rates," Attorney General Herman L. Ekern declared here Monday in a Labor day address.

The attorney general directed a general attack against the carriers and the Esch-Cummins railroad law. He defended the charge of Senator La Follette that railroad property is valued by the companies at ten billion dollars in excess of its true value, and urged a new valuation of the roads.

"The outstanding problem today is our national transportation—the charges to be made now and in the future for railroad transportation," Attorney General Ekern said. "The valuation of the railroads now in process will affect every farmer and every working man, their children and their grandchildren."

The attorney general pointed to what he said was a needed reduction of freight rates for farm products, and declared that if the freight charge were cut in two "even then the railroads would still be prosperous."

"Nor is there any reason why the railroads should not share with the farmer the decline in his prosperity, especially where they occupy a large part of the loss from the business prosperity in other lines," Attorney General Ekern said. "The total failure to do this with regard to railroad transportation is one of the great wrongs which have been committed against the farmer."

"On the other hand, the laboring man has not had the profit of the drop in price of farm products. The middleman, the great trusts and combinations have exacted their full share and the working man's cost of living is still at a figure where his wages represent no greater purchasing power than they did before the war."

"The railroad problem is only a part of the attempt of the few to amass to themselves and control more than their share. It is human nature to overreach and uncontrolled monopoly is intolerable. So are unrestrained combinations and agreements for extorting unreasonable profits. These who seek to exploit will always seek to control the government."

The attorney general told his audience that the power to control government rested in the hands of the farmers and the laborers and that "only through apathy can they fail to make the government what they will."

A large part of his address was taken up with the question of railroad valuation. He urged that a fair determination of the property value of the roads be determined no matter what the cost, declaring that the subsequent saving would more than pay the expense.

BUSINESS READJUSTMENT PROGRESSING SAYS BABSON

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—Roger W. Babson today gives his monthly review of general business conditions. Mr. Babson is not bullish on the immediate outlook believing rather that we have begun in earnest to complete the period of readjustment which was started in 1919. He insists, however, that this completion will clear the decks for real prosperity in the future. His statement is as follows:

"Business is beginning to feel the shock of President Harding's death which so stunned the American people. Although there is consolation in the fact that his successor, Calvin Coolidge, has had great administrative experience, yet a shifting from one president to another must break many connections and change many plans. The first people to feel the results of this change are the retailers. Retail sales fell off immediately following President Harding's death and have not yet resumed. Hence, wholesale buying is on only a moderate scale. Buyers are not inclined to purchase beyond their immediate needs. The people are also awaiting the size of crops and the prices of agricultural products."

"The best immediate business opportunities are believed to be in the south. Although current cotton reports are somewhat disappointing, yet the good prices promised should make the south prosperous during the next twelve months. Given the right kind of weather for the balance of the season and current prices, the south will add greatly to its wealth and purchasing power. The northwest, however, is handicapped by the European farmers who are raising more grain every year, which naturally reduces our exports of cereals. Wheat prices have shown no material change recently, but corn prices are softening, although this softening is only natural as the new corn crop approaches maturity."

"Iron, steel, petroleum, copper, wool, and certain other basic commodities are declining in price, but this is not an unhealthy sign. The great difference in the level of farm products and manufactured goods must be eliminated sooner or later. The price of agricultural products must come up and that of manufactured goods must come down. Therefore, the present readjustment movement is healthy and good for all of us in the long run. This readjustment will be accomplished by a reduction in the prices of raw materials, an increase in the efficiency of labor, and a reduction in overhead and selling expenses."

"The unemployment which is threatening certain industries, on account of foreign competition, should make labor more reasonable. On the other hand, indications are that the wage earners in those monopolies such as transportation, coal, etc., are still greatly tempted to make trouble. Certain of the railroad unions are about to make drastic demands for wage increases, restoring wages to what they were at the peak following the war and prior to the cut July 1, 1921. Considering that the dollar of 1913 is now worth about sixty-seven cents compared with only forty cents in May 1920 and only about fifty cents in the spring of 1921, these demands on the part of labor for a restoration of war time wages seem very unjust. Bank clearings have definitely turned the corner and are declining; mail order sales may have again apparently reached a maximum; the demand for iron and steel is slackening. Crude oil is piling up in Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. People scramble to buy on advancing markets, but refuse to buy on declining markets. As the result, the decline in prices may now go as much below normal as the previous advance went above normal. This is unfortunate, but being in accordance with the law of action and reaction, it is inevitable. This further explains the current decrease in retail buying and the consequent falling off in the orders of manufacturers and jobbers. When we are in a bear market prices always decline to abnormally low figures irrespective of merit or the cost of production."

"However, these are optimistic signs if studied with the long pull in view—although they naturally affect the Babsonchart index, which is today ten per cent below normal. There is no doubt that business when ill in 1920 and 1921 did not properly liquidate—it got out of bed too soon. We must now rest again and be willing to convalesce slowly. Therefore, things are now traveling in the right direction—notwithstanding current pessimism—and, when prosperity finally comes, it will be much more healthy and last much longer than it otherwise would."

ANCIENT ARCHES OF PEKING
PEKING.—The "palloos," ornamental archlike affairs of wooden beams with carvings and scrolls painted in blues, greens and reds and which lend an added quaintness to Peking's streets, are threatened with destruction through construction of street railways in the capital.

The "palloos" span the principal streets at intervals. Their bases rest on the roadway and would interfere with the proposed surface lines. The municipal authorities are putting up a fight for their preservation or rebuilding where it is absolutely essential that they be pulled down, but the tramway company opposes this idea on the ground of expense.

SEEK MORE STUDENT ROOMS FOR COMING SCHOOL YEAR

Help of Public Asked in Securing Rooms at Reasonable Rates

THE fall semester of the La Crosse state normal school will open on Tuesday, September 11th. President F. A. Cotton of the institution announced. On that day the work will be resumed in all departments.

Present indications are that the enrollment this fall will exceed all previous records. Correspondence received at the normal school office during the summer months has revealed a great interest in the local school on the part of prospective students, and many are expected to enroll from all parts of the country.

Due to the expected influx of students, the authorities of the school are faced with a shortage of suitable rooms for the students. President Cotton has issued an appeal to the people of La Crosse to help in securing rooms for students at reasonable rates. He has many requests for rooms to rent at about $1.50 a week, he says.

UNIQUE COIN SOLD FOR $1,100

LONDON.—By the Associated Press.—One of the most valuable of English coins was sold at auction recently for $1,100. The specimen was one of the 15 "Petition" crowns, or five shilling pieces, issued in the reign of Charles II. At that time a Dutchman was appointed engraver for new coinage much to the dismay of Thomas Simon, coin designer of the day. He therefore made an effort to regain his appointment by producing his "Petition" crown, around which he engraved an appeal to the king asking him to compare his work with that of the Dutchman.

Grand hotel in that city have been demolished.

While the capital of the empire burned, the new premier, Yamamoto, hastened the work of forming his cabinet and various reports state that the new government was officially installed last evening.

After the final meeting of the ministers yesterday, acting Premier Uchida decided upon the promulgation of martial law, the emergency command, declaring act and the establishment of a relief bureau.

Martial Law Declared

It is reported martial law has been extended to Yokohama.

All markets throughout Japan have been closed.

The terrible plight of the population in Tokyo and Yokohama is graphically depicted in various newspaper dispatches received here. So acute has the food shortage become in the capital that the hungry people have been trying to catch the carp in the pond in Hibaya park.

It is estimated that at least 1,000 tons of rice are needed in Tokyo alone. The quantity actually available cannot be determined as the fire has destroyed considerable stocks.

The authorities are making great efforts to collect supplies to ship to Tokyo. Meanwhile the price of rice is advancing.

So extensive is the damage in Tokyo that it is possible the national capital may be transferred temporarily to Kyoto or to this city.

The prime minister is taking a leading hand in the relief work and has refused to rest. He has given orders that the imperial palaces be thrown open for the refugees.

Relief Work Under Way

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—Six Koreans were shot to death making martial law effective in the devastated area of Korea, according to wireless messages here from Yankioka by the Radio Corporation of America.

The same message said the work of relief was already under way and provisions were being supplied to refugees from the Tokyo central station, which is undamaged.

The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia was caught in the fury of the tidal wave and earthquake while tied to a dock at Yokohama, the message said, although she came through the catastrophe undamaged, except for a broken propeller caused by fouling another ship.

The vessel is unable to proceed on her journey to Vancouver until divers are located to repair the damage. No indication was given in the message as to the whereabouts of the passengers and crew of the ship, which included many Americans, at the time of the disaster.

Empress of Australia was due to clear Yokohama, according to previous reports, twelve hours before the reported time of the first tremor.

SEA-MONSTER CAPTURED

LONDON.—A sea monster 30 feet long and weighing ten tons has been captured by fishermen off Cahilveen, County Kerry, says the Daily Chronicle. The monster has several fins and a large tail and was only captured after a six-hour struggle, during which several of the boats were upset and all the nets badly damaged. Experts who have seen the animal say that it is impossible to classify it, but suggest it is allied to the tunny.

DAHL'S FORDS TURN BACK ALL-STARS IN THIRTEEN INNINGS

"CAPPY" GROTH STALKS TO MOUND LIKE VETERAN ALLOWS STARS TEN HITS

Youthful Moundsman Hero of Day as Fords Keep Record Clean; Yields but Three Hits After Fourth Session Despite Injury

FOLLOWERS of the Dahl's Fords and virtually every baseball fan in La Crosse are today praising the name of the youthful "Cappy" Groth, veteran hurler of the Fords, who Sunday afternoon stalked to the hill in thirteen innings of desperate battle and turned back the La Crosse All-Stars in what was easily the most interesting struggle for supremacy of the diamond in La Crosse this year. The final reckoning was 9 to 8.

Revelation to Fans

The mound exhibition of Groth yesterday was a revelation to the throngs of fans in the stands, many of whom witnessed the Dahl's Fords in action for the first time. The victory of the Fords was made even greater by the fact that in the tenth inning, Groth was bearded in the left temple by a pitched ball, but to the surprise of all his admirers, the youthful hurler came back and yielded only one hit and won his game. Groth lay motionless at the plate, apparently a slain hero, while supporters of both aggregations sat with hushed voices until the youthful veteran again arose and insisted upon finishing his game.

At the request of the All-Star management a popular collection was taken in the stands for "Cappy" Groth, after his injury in the tenth inning. It yielded $137.72. Eugene Hammes, business manager, said today that Groth was examined at a local hospital Sunday night and found to have escaped without serious injury. He was struck just above the left temple, toward the front. Physicians said had the ball hit a half inch lower, Groth would have been killed instantly.

And surprising to all was Groth's feat of continuing his check on the All-Stars' hitting, for they had secured but two blows since the fourth inning, and only one, that in the thirteenth stanza, after his injury. No more brilliant could be the record of a seasoned hurler. Ten hits, seven of which came in the second, third and fourth innings, was the aggregate total secured off his masterful delivery.

Fight Back of Groth

But back of the veteran Groth were eight similarly youthful payers who fought to a man for the victory which finally came to them after thirteen innings. They fought silently against a seven run lead gained by the All-Stars in the third and fourth innings and went scoreless until they got to Hoover in the sixth for four runs. An error by Hoover himself and another by Vondrashek aided in securing the runs. Then in the seventh they continued the attack until Al Meinert, playing third, was called to the mound. But the Fords, despite the brilliant exhibition of Meinert, were not to be denied and the boys pushed over three additional runs in the eighth to tie the count. Groth shot a big grounder between Meinert's legs to let in the tying runs.

In the third inning the All-Stars counted two scores, but brilliant fielding of Troyanek and Krisker cut off two runs at the plate. Groth gave two bases on balls and a two base hit by Tanke. Then in the fourth, singles by Hoover and Tanke, and two base hits by Temp and Vondrashek, together with two errors, gave the All-Stars five runs and the Ford supporters sat quiet in the face of evident defeat.

Dahl's Score

A walk by Groth, Hoover's error on Martelle's grounder, a hit by Christoffer, Troyanek's walk and Voss' single gave the Fords their first corners, on the board. Four hits and Meinert's error in the eighth tied the count. Meinert pitched masterful ball in the seventh after Myers tripped and Groth and Martelle walked to fill the bases. He caused the next three men to ground out without allowing a score.

In the thirteenth inning the Dahl's started the fireworks that brought home the victory. Groth, first up, grounded out. Temp to Vondrashek, and Martelle walked. Christoffer socked a two base hit, scoring Martelle. Troyanek fled out to Temp. Voss smashed out another double, scoring Christoffer, and Krisker ended the inning by flying out to Krause.

All-Stars Threaten

The All-Stars looked good to overcome the two runs in their half but fell short. Solle walked and Falk was safe on Krisker's error. Shipe, slunk was safe on a fielder's choice and the bags were loaded. Temp

Up until shortly before press time the La Crosse Nelsons had not arrived from the north. Fitzke will undoubtedly face the Dahl's Fords in the afternoon encounter today.

FIRPO'S STRENGTH LOOMING IN DAILY SPARRING MATCHES

Challenger Driving Partners Into Corners With Heavy Blows

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—By The Associated Press.—Louis Angel Firpo's strength is looming into play in his daily workouts for his championship battle with Jack Dempsey.

Try as he will to curb strength so that his sparring partners may not be injured by his blows, he finds himself driving them into corners and making their bones rattle.

After Sunday's stiff five round workout with his four sparring partners, he noticed some of the welts he had raised on their sides and arms with blows he thought were easy. He had a word of apology for each of the men, but declared he could not hit lighter if he tried. But he has a sturdy quarter working opposite him and they told him to let loose if he wanted to, that they were willing to take a tap if it would help him to the fight.

Firpo is loath to augment the sparring corps with any new fighter, but 170 pounds, he already has sent two willing youngsters from the camp. Joe Dundee, the New York welterweight, was the first turned down and yesterday Charlie Reagan, a lad from the Bronx, a junior middleweight class, was refused a job.

AUSTRALIANS AND YANKEES MEET IN FINAL MATCHES

Americans Have Advantage by Victory Saturday in the Doubles

FOREST HILLS, N. Y.—The American Davis cup team with a 2 to 1 lead today meets the Australian team in the final matches for the famous trophy. By their victory in the doubles Saturday, William T. Tilden and R. Norris Williams gave the advantage to the United States, which forces the Australians to win both singles matches today or go home without the cup.

William Johnston plays the first match against John B. Hawkes, while Tilden faces James O. Anderson in the second.

Today's matches decide the leadership in Davis cup play. America and Australia have each won the trophy six times since it was placed in competition in 1900, while England is third with five victories.

DEMPSEY WORKING OVER LABOR DAY 11 DAYS TILL MIX

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—By The Associated Press.—Labor day means a day of labor in Jack Dempsey's training campaign with his heavyweight championship battle with Louis Firpo, eleven days away. He plans to carry on with the expectation of a record-breaking attendance at his Saratoga lake camp to watch the workout.

The champion's cold is practically broken up, but he wears a red flannel across his chest at the general agent insistence of his little trainer, Jerry Lavandis. The only place the cold still bothers him is in the head.

MORE COLOR EXPECTED TO BE ADDED TO MIDDLEWEIGHT CLASS WITH GREB ON THRONE

BY SPARROW MCGANN (Special Correspondent, Tribune) Copyright, 1923

NEW YORK—Harry Greb's victory over Johnny Wilson in the bout for the middleweight title held at the Polo Grounds Friday night, will cause affairs in this division to spruce up. This because in recent years no color has been attached to holders of the title, and where such a condition exists, interest of the fans wanes.

Grebe is a real fighter. He has held the American light-heavyweight title and has been a feared opponent by many of the 200 pounds Bill Brennan to welters. The chances are that Greb will supply plenty of interest to the middleweight class purely upon the merits of his personality. But what about his opponents?

Outlook Not Hopeful

The outlook, it may be said, is not hopeful. Jack Malone stands out as the likeliest contender and while he is a good performer he is by no means great and his personality lacks the color of a Stanley Ketchell, a Papke or other men who have figured in championship bouts in years past.

Mike McGuire is really a middleweight. But just at the moment he holds the world's light heavyweight title through his defeat of Battling Siki in Dublin last March. Mike has a lot of science at his command and always put up an interesting bout. But McGuire is far from being a wallop.

His chief interest just at present is a meeting with Gene Tunney. With this battle off his mind he may begin to take some interest in grabbing off the middleweight gonfalon.

WITH THE MAJOR LEAGUES

CHICAGO, Ill.—By the Associated Press.—The Boston Nationals defeated the lofty New York Giants at the Polo grounds yesterday, 3 to 2, when Art Nehf weakened in the tenth inning.

The New Yorkers scored their two runs in the first inning and after that were held close to the plate by Genevick. The Giants lost none of their lead, as Cincinnati was defeated by St. Louis.

The New York Americans also went down to defeat, being beaten by Washington 7 to 2. Mordridge, pitching for the Senators, allowed seven hits.

Ken Williams' 26th homer won for the St. Louis Americans over Detroit in St. Louis, 4 to 3. It came in the third inning with two men on base, and gave the Browns their third straight game from Detroit.

Haines pitched over the Reds in Cincinnati, 4 to 1. Johnny Rawlings again won an eleven inning game in Chicago and won for the Pittsburgh Nationals, 8 to 6, by lining out a two bagger which sent in a pair of runs. The Philadelphia Nationals pounded four Robin pitchers in Brooklyn and scored a lop-sided victory, 12 to 3.

The Cleveland-Chicago game was called because of rain.

Labor day and eight double-headers scheduled in the major leagues. One of the few conflicts of the season resulted in an amusing situation here yesterday. Thirty-five squares north of the downtown district the Chicago Nationals lost to Pittsburgh six to eight in eleven innings, while thirty-five squares south of the business district the Chicago Americans saw their contest with the Cleveland Indians rained out.

It happened when the Americans' groundskeeper removed the tarpaulin from the infield just in time to subject it to a game killing deluge.
